

EXCERPT FROM THE BOOK ZENDOOR AND THE ZENDOORIONS

The story about the SHADOW PEOPLE, came to life as a result of a few strange turn of events, a local police man, was being observant, and as he paid attention to the smallest detail, which resulting in the chance encounter with a FFRENCH embassy official.

That chance encounter have open the door to a story that will have the reader, wondering and asking questions for years to come.

For over five thousand years, the people of this small planet called EARTH, have been wondering where we came from, and from time to time we even look to the stars with inquisitiveness, and we also believe that everything that is good is above.

And to this day, that thought still hold true, and now we as a people, are making great strides in the quest to explore the outer reaches of space, with the hope to find our self.

Many people have talked about visitors from another world, and that they have seen space ships visiting the planet EARTH, and those people have been laugh at, as crack pots, and day dreamers.

The reports have been so many, that there is now a large group of people that subscribes to the idea that there is life in outer space.

There are a number of tribes that is mentioned and highlighted in this book, and there are also a number of people that will be named, and all the characters named in this book, have helped to bring this story to life.
